

Rootstock Northwest is a Washington-based non-profit that aims to nourish our community by connecting people in need with fresh, locally grown produce from nearby farms. We believe everyone deserves access to healthy, high-quality food while supporting the small farmers who sustain our regional food chain. By bridging farms and families, we strengthen local food systems, reduce waste, and promote food equity.

Fresh Food for the People

Our first project delivers weekly bags of fresh local groceries, primarily produce, to people in need, doubling the power of each dollar invested: fighting food insecurity AND purchasing directly from small producers.
